Dear Fellow Shareholders,

The Wilson Asset Management team and I would like to thank our shareholders for attending WAM Vault Live. We enjoyed meeting with you again in-person and hope you enjoyed hearing an update on Wilson Asset Management and Future Generation. I encourage you to provide your feedback on WAM Vault Live by completing a short survey here.

If you were unable to join us in-person, you can watch a recording of the Sydney event here.

In the media

WAM Alternative Assets (ASX: WMA) Portfolio Manager Dania Zinurova highlighted the benefits of an investment portfolio that is exposed to alternative assets, including lower volatility to equity markets, in an interview with The Alpha Females Invest. Dania also discussed the composition of the WAM Alternative Assets investment portfolio and explained the value of real assets with a focus on water rights, on Equity Mates podcast.

WAM Leaders (ASX: WLE) Lead Portfolio Manager Matthew Haupt discussed the Labor party's renewables commitment and the impact it will have on equity markets in the Australian Financial Review.

On the Australian Shareholders' Association's Shares for Beginners podcast, small-to-mid cap Senior Equity Analyst Shaun Weick shared his career journey, what he finds interesting in equity markets right now and discussed Wilson Asset Management's investment process.

I sat down with Kathryn Robinson on ABC's The Business to talk about my view on AGL Energy's abandoned demerger and the plan for the business going forward. I also discussed the demerger in The Australian and the Australian Financial Review. I believe it would destroy value for shareholders and limit AGL Energy's ability to achieve decarbonisation targets.

Mike Baird AO to Chair Future Generation Australia

Mike Baird will join Future Generation Australia's (ASX: FGX) Board of Directors and become its new Chair. Mr Baird will take over from Jonathan Trollip effective 31 July 2022 and is a former Premier of NSW, current CEO of HammondCare and Board Member of Cricket Australia and Surfing Australia. We are incredibly grateful to Mr Trollip, who has chaired Future Generation Australia since its inception in 2014 and overseen a social investment of almost $30 million in children and youth at risk. Wilson Asset Management is the lead supporter of the Future Generation companies.

WAM Leaders to merge with Absolute Equity Performance Fund (ASX: AEG)

WAM Leaders and Absolute Equity Performance Fund (AEG) announced today that they have entered into a Scheme Implementation Agreement to merge the two entities.

It is proposed that WAM Leaders will acquire 100% of AEG through a Scheme of Arrangement (Scheme). Under the Scheme, AEG shareholders will receive new WAM Leaders shares as consideration for their AEG shares. The number of WAM Leaders shares to be offered for each AEG share will be determined by a formula based on the ratio of the net tangible assets (NTA) of WAM Leaders before tax (pre-tax NTA) to the pre-tax NTA of AEG. After the merger, AEG shareholders will make up around 5.1% of the combined group. We look forward to welcoming AEG shareholders to the Wilson Asset Management family as we continue to grow WAM Leaders.

The proposed merger of WAM Leaders and AEG follows AEG's consultation process announced on 16 February 2022, under which the AEG Board and its advisors evaluated a range of alternatives with a view to maximise value for all AEG shareholders. The Proposed Transaction will create a single listed investment company with a larger capital and shareholder base, to be managed by Wilson Asset Management. The WAM Leaders Board of Directors believe the merged entity will deliver several benefits to AEG shareholders including the ability to exit their investment in AEG at a premium to the stated pre-tax NTA backing of the company and a premium to the share price of AEG.

It is currently anticipated that AEG shareholders will be given the opportunity to vote on the Scheme at a meeting expected to be held in September 2022. Detailed information relating to the Scheme will be set out in the Scheme Booklet, which is expected to be sent to AEG shareholders during August 2022.

Thank you for your continued support and please stay safe.

Geoff Wilson AO
Chairman

The WAM Microcap (ASX: WMI) investment portfolio decreased during the month. Software company Reckon (ASX: RKN) was a contributor to the investment portfolio performance, while video equipment manufacturer Atomos (ASX: AMS) was a detractor.

Reckon is a leading software provider for accountants, bookkeepers, small-to-medium sized businesses and personal users. During the month, Reckon announced that it entered into an agreement to sell its Accountants Practice Management division for all cash proceeds of $100 million. Following the sale, Reckon plans to return the majority of its proceeds to its shareholders via a special dividend. We believe this is a transformational divestment for the company at a very attractive price, representing 8.4 times the multiple of its FY2021 earnings before interest, taxes, depreciation and amortisation (EBITDA) for the Accountants Practice Management Group. The cash proceeds from the sale were equivalent to the market capitalisation of the company prior to the announcement. The divestment also allows Reckon's management team to focus its attention on driving its remaining business divisions, which generated $50 million of revenue and $17 million of EBITDA in FY2021.

Atomos is a global video technology company based in Australia. In a May trading update, the company downgraded its FY2022 revenue to between $80 million and $90 million, and EBITDA margin to between 6% and 8%, causing a large fall in Atomos' share price. Atomos explained the downgrade was due to slower-than-expected sales in the first four months of 2022, as a result of the change in its marketing approach, and the expected short-term impact of coronavirus lockdowns in Shanghai on its production schedule for new products. The update was below our expectations and we have since exited our position in the company.

The most compelling undervalued growth opportunities in the Australian market.

The WAM Capital (ASX: WAM) investment portfolio decreased during the month. Electronic products manufacturer Codan (ASX: CDA) was a contributor to the investment portfolio performance, while building services company Johns Lyng Group (ASX: JLG) was a detractor.

Codan is a technology company that develops a range of radio and detection products. During May, Codan provided a positive market update, outlining that it expects to achieve a record FY2022 full year profit driven by its strategy to diversify revenues. Codan stated that the increased profitability of its communications division also contributed to the prospect that Codan will match its record FY2022 first half profit of $50 million for the second half of the financial year. Additionally, the company noted that the expanding opportunity pipeline for Domo Tactical Communications and Zetron, businesses that Codan acquired in 2021, are tracking ahead of schedule with expectations that both companies will deliver a strong result for the six months to June 2022. We remain positive on the upcoming announcement of Codan's full year result and continue to believe in management's ability to sustain profits.

Johns Lyng Group is an integrated building service group delivering building and restoration services across Australia and the US. In May, Johns Lyng Group announced its Managing Director and group Chief Executive Officer Scott Didier and Executive Director and group Chief Operating Officer Lindsay Barber each sold 1 million shares in the company to manage their personal asset portfolios. While the share sales represent a small percentage of their holdings in the company, the Johns Lyng Group share price fell following the update. In the same announcement, the company reiterated it is on-track to achieve its guidance for FY2022, with sales revenue of $802.4 million and earnings before interest, taxes, depreciation and amortisation (EBITDA) of $78.7 million. We believe Johns Lyng Group is a quality business with an important role to play in managing ongoing catastrophes, demonstrated by its appointment to lead New South Wales government's flood recovery response earlier this year, and we anticipate further projects will lift its profits in the future.

Actively investing in the highest quality Australian companies.

The WAM Leaders (ASX: WLE) investment portfolio outperformed the S&P/ASX 200 Accumulation Index during the month. Significant contributors to the investment portfolio outperformance included Aristocrat Leisure (ASX: ALL), Mineral Resources (ASX: MIN), Santos (ASX: STO) and Treasury Wine Estates (ASX: TWE).

As we discussed during WAM Vault Live in May, the most notable event during the month was the completion of a transformative merger between Woodside Energy Group (ASX: WDS) and BHP Group's (ASX: BHP) oil and gas portfolio BHP Petroleum. The all-scrip transaction has almost doubled Woodside Energy Group's earnings and market capitalisation, and created a top 10 global exploration and production business. Key benefits of the transaction include greater scale and geographic and product diversity. The balance sheet is now de-gearing with potential for capital management and acceleration of deep water projects such as Trion, which is expected to reach final investment decision in the second half of this year. Pre-tax synergies are also expected of over USD400 million per annum as the two businesses are integrated.

WAM Leaders received Woodside Energy Group shares when the transaction completed. While positive on both Woodside Energy Group and Santos, our preferred oil exposure remains Santos. Santos' management continues to actively manage the portfolio, looking to sell down USD2 to 3 billion of assets this calendar year with the goal of de-risking growth projects, strengthening the balance sheet and smoothing out allocation of capital expenditure. We expect the oil price to remain elevated over the medium-term given continued growing demand, underinvestment in capital and an escalated security of supply dynamic in response to the Russia-Ukraine war.

W | A | M Global

The world's most compelling undervalued growth companies.

The WAM Global (ASX: WGB) investment portfolio decreased during the month. Verra Mobility (NASDAQ: VRRM) was a contributor to the investment portfolio performance, while Intercontinental Exchange (NYSE: ICE) was a detractor.

Verra Mobility is a global leader in mobility solutions operating primarily in two business segments. In Government Solutions, Verra Mobility provides traffic enforcement solutions to government customers. In Commercial Services, it provides tolling products and services to rental car companies in the US and Europe. Verra Mobility released strong first quarter results with 90% revenue growth and 67% adjusted earnings per share (EPS) growth compared to the prior corresponding quarter. The key drivers of the group result were strong US domestic travel demand in Commercial Services and the acquisition of Australian company Redflex, further consolidating Verra Mobility's position in the Government Solutions segment. We remain positive on Verra Mobility as demand for travel continues to return, with rental car demand still below 2019 levels. Additionally, recent wins in Government Solutions will be a positive driver for the business, and Verra Mobility's entry into parking enforcement creates further growth opportunities looking forward.

Intercontinental Exchange is a leading operator of global commodity and financial products marketplaces. Despite reporting a first quarter 2022 result that was ahead of market expectations, Intercontinental Exchange was a detractor to the investment portfolio performance during the month. Investors had mixed reactions to Intercontinental Exchange's announcement to acquire Black Knight (NYSE: BKI), a leading mortgage software provider. While we acknowledge concerns around the deal increasing mortgage exposure as a percent of revenues for Intercontinental Exchange, we view this deal more favourably. Chief Executive Officer Jeffrey Sprecher has an outstanding proven track record of creating value through acquisitions. From a strategic level, Black Knight is a strong fit with Intercontinental Exchange's Mortgage Technology Business and positions the company to be the leading provider of end-to-end electronic workflow solutions for the US residential mortgage industry. Further, the market is underappreciating that approximately 90% of Black Knight's revenues are recurring in nature. We remain confident in our investment in Intercontinental Exchange, particularly given its core exchange business tends to benefit from market volatility.

W | A | M Alternative Assets

Unique opportunities beyond traditional assets

The WAM Alternative Assets (ASX: WMA) investment portfolio increased during the month. The investment portfolio's exposure to real assets, including water rights, and Adamantem Capital Fund II's partial sale of their investment in Climate Friendly were contributors to the investment portfolio performance.

In 2021, WAM Alternative Assets committed capital to an Australian mid-market buy-out private equity fund, Adamantem Capital Fund II (Fund II), managed by Adamantem Capital. Adamantem invests in mid-sized Australian and New Zealand businesses with an enterprise value typically between $100 million and $300 million at the time of the investment. One of the first investments made by Fund II was in Climate Friendly, a carbon farming project services provider. Established in 2003, Climate Friendly partners with landholders such as farmers, traditional custodians and conservation organisations to create carbon abatement projects which regenerate land and increases the amount of carbon their land removes from the atmosphere. Since Adamantem's investment last year, Climate Friendly has expanded its operations significantly. In May 2022, Adamantem sold a minority stake in Climate Friendly to a Japanese conglomerate Mitsui & Co. Following completion of the sale, Adamantem will continue to be a majority shareholder, supporting continued growth in the business and we have received the capital proceeds from this partial sale, which was exited at a premium to the asset backing.

The Argyle Water Fund, which invests in the long-term ownership of Australian Water Entitlements (also known as water licences or water shares), contributed positively to the investment portfolio performance during May. This was driven by the extraordinary prices for commodities such as cotton, grains and oilseeds, as well as limited offers for sale by water entitlement holders at current values. Buyer demand for water entitlements has remained strong despite increases in the cost of key inputs such as diesel, agricultural chemicals and constrained labour supplies for harvesting. Large plantings of cotton and rice are expected to soak up much of the current abundant water supply in the Murray Darling Basin over the coming months. In time, this will draw down current dam levels and tighten the market for seasonal water supplies. The recent change of government could bring renewed focus on the finer details of the Murray-Darling Basin Plan. A potential government funded acquisition of an additional 450 gigalitres of water for environmental flows through a voluntary water entitlement buyback program would provide a significant tailwind to the Argyle Water Fund. However, a lot of debate will be necessary before this measure could be agreed by all state governments and other key stakeholders.

Discounted asset opportunities.

The WAM Strategic Value (ASX: WAR) investment portfolio decreased during the month. During the month, we added two new positions to the investment portfolio, financial services provider AMP (ASX: AMP) and energy provider AGL Energy (ASX: AGL).

AMP is a provider of superannuation and investment products, financial advice, and banking products including home loans and savings accounts in Australia and New Zealand. As mentioned in The Australian Financial Review this month, we believe the company is undervalued and trading at an attractive discount to its net tangible assets (NTA). AMP recently entered into an agreement for the sale of its international infrastructure equity business within Collimate Capital to DigitalBridge Investment Holdco, a leading global digital infrastructure investment firm, for an upfront consideration of $462 million and total value of up to $699 million. Collimate Capital was renamed from AMP Capital after its demerger from AMP Limited. We view this transaction as positive for shareholders as when combined with the $430 million from the sale of the domestic infrastructure equity and real estate business and the $578 million from the sale of the infrastructure debt platform, this transaction values the total Collimate Capital business at approximately $2.0 billion including the value of retained assets. During AMP Capital's AGM, the Board signalled its intention to return capital with its significant excess cash on its balance sheet later in the year and the share price trading at a discount to its underlying asset backing. The prospects of the Board announcing capital management initiatives, including a share buyback, capital return and the recommencement of dividends to shareholders provides the potential for earnings per share (EPS) accretion and a catalyst for a share price rerate.

AGL Energy is an Australian listed public company involved in both the generation and retailing of electricity and gas for residential and commercial use. During the month, the company abandoned plans to demerge its coal generation business and announced its Chief Executive Officer and Managing Director Graeme Hunt and Chair Peter Botten will leave the company. This announcement followed pressure from shareholders who believed the proposed demerger would destroy value for shareholder's and limit AGL Energy's ability to achieve decarbonisation targets, as discussed in The Australian and The Australian Financial Review. We are supportive of plans to abandon the demerger for several reasons, including the significant cost to shareholders, including the loss of scale and diversification, a $260 million in one-off implementation cost and $35 million in additional ongoing operating expenses per annum. We are confident a refreshed board will steer the company in the right direction and will further enable AGL Energy to meet its decarbonisation targets. AGL Energy's underlying business is positioned favourably to develop new distributed-energy products as more Australian households look to invest in greener energy sources including home batteries, solar panels and demand-management technology.

*WAM Strategic Value received WAM Global shares and options as scrip consideration for TGG shares held.

The WAM Research (ASX: WAX) investment portfolio decreased during the month. Engineering firm Worley (ASX: WOR) was a contributor to the investment portfolio performance, while building services company Johns Lyng Group (ASX: JLG) was a detractor.

Worley provides engineering, procurement and construction expertise to the upstream, midstream, chemicals, power, energy and minerals sectors. During May, Worley was awarded three new contracts with Shell Offshore, Bourouge 4 LLC and Heartwell Renewables LLC and signed an agreement with Avantium Renewable Polymers to provide engineering, procurement and construction services to develop the Avantium flagship facility in the Netherlands. The engineering, procuring and construction services Worley will provide to these companies aims to support the growth of their assets as well as their sustainability targets. With new contracts in the pipeline and FY2022 costs expected to be less than half of FY2021, we believe Worley's revenue and earnings target for the second half of FY2022 is well supported.

Johns Lyng Group is an integrated building service group delivering building and restoration services across Australia and the US. In May, Johns Lyng Group announced its Managing Director and group Chief Executive Officer Scott Didier and Executive Director and group Chief Operating Officer Lindsay Barber each sold 1 million shares in the company to manage their personal asset portfolios. While the share sales represent a small percentage of their holdings in the company, the Johns Lyng Group share price fell following the update. In the same announcement, the company reiterated it is on-track to achieve its guidance for FY2022, with sales revenue of $802.4 million and earnings before interest, taxes, depreciation and amortisation (EBITDA) of $78.7 million. We believe Johns Lyng Group is a quality business with an important role to play in managing ongoing catastrophes, demonstrated by its appointment to lead New South Wales government's flood recovery response earlier this year, and we anticipate further projects will lift its profits in the future.

Market mispricing opportunities in the Australian market.

The WAM Active (ASX: WAA) investment portfolio decreased during the month. Electronic products manufacturer Codan (ASX: CDA) was a contributor to the investment portfolio performance, while automotive accessories supplier ARB Corporation (ASX: ARB) was a detractor.

Codan is a technology company that develops a range of radio and detection products. During May, Codan provided a positive market update, outlining that it expects to achieve a record FY2022 full year profit driven by its strategy to diversify revenues. Codan stated that the increased profitability of its communications division also contributed to the prospect that Codan will match its record FY2022 first half profit of $50 million for the second half of the financial year. Additionally, the company noted that the expanding opportunity pipeline for Domo Tactical Communications and Zetron, businesses that Codan acquired in 2021, are tracking ahead of schedule with expectations that both companies will deliver a strong result for the six months to June 2022. We remain positive on the upcoming announcement of Codan's full year result and continue to believe in management's ability to sustain profits.

ARB Corporation designs, manufactures, distributes and sells motor vehicle accessories. During May, ARB Corporation delivered a market update, noting numerous challenges to its business operations including a hike in commodity prices, a global shortage of new vehicles, global logistics and pricing issues, a labour and skills shortage and exchange rate volatility. The company also outlined an expected increase in total capital expenditure to $57 million in FY2022, up from $33 million in FY2021, due to costs associated with its factories and upgrades to its retail stores and manufacturing equipment. We remain upbeat that ARB Corporation will likely achieve its projected FY2022 revenue of $700 million, supported by its 18% year-on-year increase in sales revenue over the nine months ending 31 March. Our outlook for ARB Corporation remains positive as the business continues to deliver on growth opportunities in Australia and in export markets, development of new products and fostering of partnerships with major customers.
