Dear Fellow Shareholders,

After a strong first quarter, global equity markets continued their rally in April 2019. This year's rebound has been driven by accommodative central banks and the recent fiscal stimulus from China which has started to take effect.

US stock indices recorded their best four-month start to a calendar year in decades. The S&P 500 Index increased 17.5% in local terms over the last four months to record the strongest start to a calendar year since 1987. In AUD terms the S&P 500 Index increased by 4.6% in April and the MSCI World Index (AUD) rose by 4.5%.

The Australian equity market was buoyed by global sentiment, with the S&P/ASX All Ordinaries Accumulation Index increasing four straight weeks to close up 2.5% in April. During the month, evidence of economic weakness continued as the Australian Bureau of Statistics announced that inflation rose at a lower than expected rate of 1.3% through the year to the March 2019 quarter.

In light of recent global macroeconomic developments, we have increased our equity exposure across our listed investment companies (LICs) since the beginning of the year by taking advantage of market volatility to invest in undervalued companies that meet our rigorous investment strategy. At the end of April, the cash weightings of the portfolios were: 18.7% for WAM Capital; 11.3% for WAM Leaders; 11.5% for WAM Global; 19.2% for WAM Research; 19.5% for WAM Active; and 16.4% for WAM Microcap.

Although central bank policies are supportive of equities, we are cautious in our market outlook and remain focused on capital preservation. As such, our redeployment of capital has been highly selective.

Listed investment company update

On 10 April, WAM Capital, WAM Leaders, WAM Research, WAM Active and WAM Microcap shares traded ex-dividend. Historically, our LICs' share prices have outperformed after the announcement of the dividend and have then decreased by a greater amount than the dividend as investors purchase shares cum dividend and sell them ex-dividend. This was particularly the case for WAM Capital and WAM Research's interim dividends given their significant fully franked dividend yields. The resulting share price movements can present investment opportunities for shareholders with a long-term focus.

Between 31 December 2018 and 3 May 2019, the average premium of LICs with shares trading above their net tangible asset (NTA) backing* fell from above 7% to almost zero. Given the general decline in LIC premiums, the regular dividend trading is likely to have been compounded by the uncertainty created by the Federal Opposition's proposal to remove franking credit refunds. This factor could be cyclical and may be alleviated once policy clarity is achieved.

In addition to attractive fully franked dividend yields, a share register comprising long-term investors assists LICs in trading relative to their NTA backing. WAM Capital's share registry turned over 60% during its first three years and at different points throughout its history it has traded at premiums and discounts.

WAM Leaders and WAM Global are early in their lives and we believe both companies present significant value at their current share prices. WAM Leaders has outperformed, built its profits reserve and steadily increased its dividend yield since inception in 2016. In June 2018, WAM Global listed immediately prior to an increase in global equity market volatility and significant equity market declines, particularly in the small-to-mid cap segment. In recent months, performance has been solid with WAM Global outperforming the market by 1.3% over the past three months and increasing by 15.5% since 31 December 2018.

WAM Leaders and WAM Global provide investors with exposure to quality portfolios derived from our proven investment strategy and, like WAM Capital, I believe they will deliver for shareholders over the long-term. I have been adding to my holdings in both companies.

Thanks for your support

Your support for our campaign against the proposal to remove franking credit refunds has secured the policy's position as a key election issue and ensured it has attracted the scrutiny it deserves. Regardless of which political Party wins the upcoming Federal Election, we hope that Labor abandons or drastically changes this inequitable policy. We believe there is cause for hope. For example, nine of the 10 crossbench Senators have committed to blocking the changes if they reach the Senate in their current form and two have adopted our term for the policy: "retirement tax". Last week we released a policy background and a new survey on behavioural change - thank you to the 3,591 individuals who have completed the survey so far.

Portfolio update

The MSCI World Index (AUD) increased 4.5% and the S&P Global Mid Small Index in AUD terms rose 3.5% in April. The best performing sectors in April were financials, information technology, communication services and consumer discretionary, while the healthcare and real estate sectors were the worst. All major equity markets rallied in local terms: the US S&P 500 Index by 3.9%; the Euro Stoxx 50 Index by 4.9%; the UK FTSE 100 Index by 1.9%; Japan's TOPIX by 1.7%; China's CSI 300 Index by 1.1%; and Australia's S&P/ASX All Ordinaries Accumulation Index by 2.5%.

During April, China released economic data that beat expectations and indicated government stimulus implemented since the second half of last year was beginning to have the desired effect of reigniting the economy. Key data points included: gross domestic product at 6.4%, ahead of the expected 6.3%; industrial production jumped 8.5% year-on-year in March, which was above the estimated 5.9%, registering the fastest growth since July 2014; retail sales grew by 8.7% year-on-year in March, beating the projected 8.4%; and fixed asset investment in the first quarter of 2019 increased by 6.3% year-on-year in line with market expectations.

The US earnings season got underway in April and results have generally been positive albeit the low expectations heading into reporting season made positive earnings surprises easier to achieve. Labour tightness and high levels of inventory were raised as issues by corporates. Announcements of cuts in capex from major companies such as Microsoft (NASDAQ: MSFT) and Facebook (NASDAQ: FB) will have flow on effects through their respective supply chains. The US-China trade war negotiations continued to show little progress during April and the related uncertainty continues to weigh on equity markets.

Contributors to the investment portfolio performance during the month included CDW Corporation (NASDAQ: CDW), CME Group (NASDAQ: CME) and United Technologies (NYSE: UTX).

CDW is an information technology (IT) services provider. The company delivered quarterly results that beat expectations and then raised earnings guidance, confirming the strong IT demand environment at present. The management team has a track record of consistently overdelivering. CDW closed up 9.6% in April.

Derivatives exchange operator CME rallied in April after a weak start to the year. The market rally during the March 2019 quarter weighed on the company, given the exposure of its earnings to trading in alternative financial instruments that benefit from heightened equity market volatility. We view CME as a dominant high-quality business with a strong management team that will benefit from multiple earnings drivers for years to come. CME closed up 8.7% for the month.

UTX produces elevators, air conditioners, aerospace components and aircraft engines. UTX's recent quarterly results confirmed our view that the company is executing on its strategy and is well positioned to continue growing earnings. UTX achieved organic growth of 8% and increased its full year 2019 guidance, a mark of confidence early in its financial year. UTX closed up 10.6% in April.

Portfolio update

The WAM Capital investment portfolio increased 4.5% in April.

Research-driven portion of the investment portfolio:

A key contributor to the portfolio performance included Bravura Solutions (ASX: BVS) a wealth management business that supplies software and professional services for superannuation, pension, life insurance and other financial services institutions. In April, BVS announced a proposal to acquire its listed rival GBST Holdings (ASX: GBT) for $2.50 per GBST share. We first invested in BVS in September 2017 due to our belief that the business could increase momentum in the United Kingdom wealth management sector and upgrade earnings expectations. BVS closed up 5.5% for the month.

Market-driven portion of the investment portfolio:

A key contributor for the month was Megaport (ASX: MP1) which connects enterprise customers to cloud computing through their proprietary software defined network. MP1 recently reported its quarterly results with 44% growth in total customers (3QFY19 on 3QFY18) and revenue of $9.0 million, an increase of 74% compared to the comparative quarter. We recently participated in a MP1 placement at a discounted price of $4.00 per share to accelerate the company's network expansion and technology innovation. MP1 closed up 39.9% for April.

Portfolio update

The WAM Leaders investment portfolio increased 1.7% in April.

Contributors to the portfolio performance included Amcor (ASX: AMC) and CSL (ASX: CSL). AMC produces high-barrier recyclable packaging for the food, beverage, pharmaceutical, medical-device, home and personal-care industries. In April, AMC announced a pro-rata dividend payment of US 12.0 cents per share prior to the completion of its takeover of Bemis (NYSE: BMS). On 2 May, Bemis shareholders voted in favour of AMC's takeover of the business which is a step towards creating the world's largest consumer packaging firm. We first invested in AMC due to share price weakness post the announcement of the Bemis acquisition and continue to hold AMC as we expect trading conditions to improve in the short term and as synergies from the acquisition are realised. AMC closed up 4.2% for the month of April.

We hold CSL as a core holding due to the company's earnings momentum and increased our stake after a strong retracement in shares towards the end of last year. We continue to like CSL's end markets and take comfort in its competitors reporting results which solidifies our view that there is a strong probability of CSL meeting or exceeding its earnings guidance. With strong volumes and pricing in its core business, we continue to hold CSL as a core position in the portfolio. CSL closed up 19% for April.

The WAM Research investment portfolio increased 4.9% in April.

Contributors to the portfolio performance included Credit Corp Group (ASX: CCP) and Bravura Solutions (ASX: BVS). During April, CCP announced a capital raising to accelerate its expansion into the United States and to strengthen its balance sheet to increase its funding flexibility. CCP also upgraded its debt ledger purchasing and consumer lending guidance. We continue to hold CCP as we believe the recent capital raising will fast track its double-digit earnings growth in the United States over the next few years. CCP closed up 7.5% for April.

(ASX: WMI)

Portfolio update

The WAM Microcap investment portfolio increased 5.5% in April.

Contributors to the portfolio performance included Bubs Australia (ASX: BUB) and 5G Networks (ASX: 5GN). BUB is an infant formula brand which largely specialises in goats milk based infant formula. During April, BUB announced a four-year strategic alliance with Chemist Warehouse relating to the sale and promotion of its products within its domestic stores and online network. BUB has also recently announced that it had entered into a partnership with Fonterra Australia to produce Australia's first organic grass-fed cow milk infant formula. BUB closed up 49.1% for the month of April.

5GN specialises in data networking, cloud hosting and information technology services. We recently bought shares in 5GN after participating in a placement at a discounted price of $0.80 per share to fund the company's acquisition of a Melbourne data centre to expand its infrastructure footprint. We continue to hold 5GN as a market-driven investment in the portfolio. 5GN closed up 38.2% for April.
