W | A | M Strategic Value

The WAM Strategic Value (ASX: WAR) investment portfolio increased in January, outperforming the S&P/ASX All Ordinaries Accumulation Index, as both domestic and global equity markets performed positively during the month. Significant contributors to the investment portfolio outperformance included QV Equities (ASX: QVE), Spheria Emerging Companies (ASX: SEC), Salter Brothers Emerging Companies (ASX: SB2) and NGE Capital (ASX: NGE).

QV Equities was the largest contributor to the investment portfolio performance in January, with the company's share price increasing 6.2%. WAM Leaders (ASX: WLE) announced an intention to make an all script off-market takeover bid for QV Equities (Offer) during the month. The Offer consideration of 1 WAM Leaders share for every 1.4675 QV Equities shares represented an implied value of $0.95 per QV Equities share, based on the 30 January 2024 share price for WAM Leaders, adjusted for the payment of QVE's 1.3 cents per share December 2023 fully franked quarterly dividend at the end of the month. Following the announcement of the Offer, QV Equities directors have subsequently commenced a formal evaluation of strategic options for QV Equities, with a view to maximise value for all QV Equities shareholders.

Spheria Emerging Companies' share price increased 7.6% during the month following a sharp increase of 10.3% in December. Despite the 18.7% share price performance since 30 November 2023, the shares continued to trade at a 8.1% discount to pre-tax net tangible assets (NTA) at the end of January. During the month, the board of Spheria Emerging Companies, along with the investment manager, announced a proposal to address the share price discount to NTA. Under the terms of the proposal, should the average share price discount to NTA during Q4 2024 exceed 5.0%, the board intends to pursue avenues to enable shareholders to exchange their shares in Spheria Emerging Companies for units in Spheria Australian Smaller Companies Fund by way of a scheme of arrangement. Should the proposal eventuate, it would provide shareholders in Spheria Emerging Companies with the opportunity to exit their investment at close to NTA.

Salter Brothers Emerging Companies and NGE Capital also contributed to the strong investment portfolio performance in January, increasing 11.3% and 9.8% respectively.

Look-through NTA before tax

The Australian Accounting standards require the Company's pre-tax NTA to be calculated based on the market price (or share price) of the underlying investment portfolio. The Company's look-through pre-tax NTA is an estimation of the Company's pre-tax NTA calculated using the estimated or most recently available pre-tax NTA of the underlying investment portfolio as at the end of the month where available. The look-through pre-tax NTA of the Company is indicative only and provides an estimate for investors of the value of the underlying investment portfolio, assuming the share price discount to NTA of the underlying discounted asset opportunities are closed.

The WAM Capital (ASX: WAM) investment portfolio increased for the month, outperforming the S&P/ASX All Ordinaries Accumulation Index. Australian lotteries retailer Jumbo Interactive (ASX: JIN) and connectivity services provider Megaport (ASX: MP1) were contributors to the investment portfolio outperformance.

Jumbo Interactive is an Australian lotteries retailer and provider of a Software as a Service (SaaS) platform for government and charity lottery operators. The recent share price increase was primarily driven by a surge in lottery ticket sales for Powerball jackpots during the month. We believe the new players acquired by Jumbo Interactive through this jackpot period can be converted into regular players, boosting customer numbers and therefore revenues as a result. We believe that Jumbo Interactive is currently undervalued by the market with a net cash balance sheet providing plenty of scope for earnings accretive acquisitions or capital management.

Megaport is an enterprise software and services organisation that enables data connection between companies and data centres. In January, Megaport's share price increased off the back of a positive quarterly earnings update which surpassed market expectations. The company also announced the addition of a large US-based healthcare customer, worth $4.2 million over the next three years, representing the company's largest deal to date. Megaport is a beneficiary of an increase in data connectivity and artificial intelligence and we believe the company is well positioned to continue taking advantage of the demand for its services over the next few years.

Fully franked dividends since inception

The Company's ability to continue paying fully franked dividends at the current level is dependent on generating additional profits reserves, through positive investment portfolio performance in FY2024, and franking credits. The ability to generate additional franking credits is reliant on the receipt of franked dividends from investee companies and the payment of tax on profits.

W | A | M Leaders

The WAM Leaders (ASX: WLE) investment portfolio increased during the month, outperforming the S&P/ASX 200 Accumulation Index. While the global narrative of stronger data and softening rates continued, Australian data told a different story with clear weakness in retail trade, a softening labour market and a broadening of disinflationary pressures. Contributors to the investment portfolio outperformance included Orora (ASX: ORA) and Brambles (ASX: BXB), both global industrial companies, benefiting from the relative offshore economic strength and the AUD to USD foreign exchange rate depreciating over 3% in January.

Orora provides glass and can beverage packaging in Australia and New Zealand, packaging solutions including corrugated sheet manufacturing in North and Central America, and last year acquired Saverglass, a high-end bottle manufacturer based in France. There has been concern since the acquisition that the destocking cycle has been more aggressive than first anticipated, which has weighed on the share price. However, recent offshore results from Diageo (LON: DGE), LVMH Moët Hennessy Louis Vuitton (EPA: MC) and Rémy Cointreau (EPA: RCO), key customers of Saverglass, show there are green shoots emerging with customer depletion rates ahead of shipping volumes. Elsewhere, a surge in South Australian wine exports in late 2023 suggest strong volumes for its Australasian business. Orora remains a key holding in the WAM Leaders investment portfolio, as it is still trading at a deep discount to its deserved valuation.

Brambles owns and operates the world's largest pool of reusable pallets and containers, used to transport fast-moving consumer goods, fresh produce, beverage, retail and general manufacturing through its supply chains. Brambles benefits from the same destocking trends as Orora, with key customers reporting consistent volume improvements in the December 2023 quarter. Pallet issuance volumes are generally an early-cycle indicator, and the rate of decline has slowed, while pallet returns are late cycle, and these are elevated. This suggests excess pallets have washed through the system. Brambles also remains a key holding in the WAM Leaders investment portfolio and we expect another solid result when they report later this month.

The WAM Global investment portfolio increased during the month, outperforming the MSCI World Index (AUD). Significant contributors to the investment portfolio outperformance included healthcare services provider HCA Healthcare (NYSE: HCA) and consulting services provider Booz Allen Hamilton (NYSE: BAH).

HCA Healthcare operates 183 hospitals with over 2,300 sites of care across 20 states in the US and the UK. In January, HCA Healthcare delivered a positive fourth-quarter earnings result that exceeded market expectations. Revenue for the quarter was up 11.7%, with same facility equivalent admissions growing by 3.1% year-on-year, and revenue per equivalent admission up 6.9% year-on-year. HCA Healthcare is benefiting from investments made in adding higher acuity service lines. In addition, the management team showcased significant progress in managing operating costs in a challenging labour market. HCA Healthcare released its 2024 sales and earnings guidance, which both exceeded market expectations and were higher than what was stated at its Investor Day in November 2023. We remain positive on HCA Healthcare, with revenue growth expected to be driven by demographic tailwinds, exposure to growing states and network expansion, while the cost pressures of the past few years continue to abate. The company has a high quality management team that we believe can continue to drive operational improvements to support margins. HCA Healthcare's valuation remains compelling and we believe the company's guidance looks achievable given strong momentum in operating performance.

Booz Allen Hamilton (Booz Allen) is a leading provider of consulting services to the US Government, including the Department of Defence, intelligence community and civilian agencies. In January, Booz Allen reported its third-quarter fiscal 2024 results, which were above market expectations; including 13% year-on-year revenue growth and 32% year-on-year adjusted earnings per share (EPS) growth. Booz Allen also provided a better-than-expected revenue growth target for fiscal 2024, raising revenue growth guidance to between 14% to 15% year-on-year, from 11% to 14% year-on-year. Booz Allen is benefiting from its clear leadership position in artificial intelligence (AI) and cyber security as the US government increasingly prioritises investment in those areas. Supported by these tailwinds, we believe Booz Allen has a strong runway of growth ahead that will drive share price performance over coming quarters.

The Board declared a fully franked interim dividend of 6.0 cents per share payable on 29 April 2024. The Company's ability to continue paying fully franked dividends is dependent on generating additional franking credits through the payment of tax on profits in FY2024. If no additional franking is generated through the performance of the investment portfolio and the payment of tax on profits, the Company will only be able to partially frank future dividends or pay unfranked dividends to shareholders.

The WAM Microcap (ASX: WMI) investment portfolio increased during the month. Contributors to the investment portfolio performance included global engineering company Austin Engineering (ASX: ANG) and Australian online retailer Kogan.com (ASX: KGN).

Austin Engineering manufactures and supplies specialised mining products such as buckets and truck trays that improve efficiency for large mining clients globally. The company increased profit guidance to between $12 million to $14 million for the first half of FY2024, doubling from the prior period, with revenue guidance also uplifted to between $138 million and $144 million. The improved outlook is credited to growing revenue and ongoing operational improvements under the Austin 2.0 strategy initiated in 2021, which focuses on boosting average operating margins. We remain optimistic about Austin Engineering's outlook for revenue and earnings growth and with the balance sheet moving into a net cash position later in the year, we see the ability for the company to make earnings accretive acquisitions.

In January, Australian online retailer Kogan.com released its latest business update, highlighting continued profit improvements in the first half of FY2024. The company reported gross profit of $89.5 million, marking a 42.1% year-on-year increase, fueled by the expanding share of platform-based sales. Maintaining a strong financial position, Kogan.com reported a substantial cash balance of $83.3 million, even after allocating over $17.2 million to the company's share buy-back initiative. The Kogan.com loyalty program experienced significant growth, with over 466,000 subscribers as of 31 December 2023, a 15.3% year-on-year increase, and provides the company with an expanding recurring earnings profile going forward that can contribute to a share price rerating.

W | A | M Alternative Assets

The WAM Alternative Assets (ASX: WMA) investment portfolio increased during the month, primarily driven by the increase in the value of private equity investments denominated in US dollars following the depreciation of the Australian dollar.

In January, WAM Alternative Assets finalised its separate mandate arrangement with a new investment partner, Liverpool Partners. Liverpool Partners has over $1.5 billion in funds under management across its private equity and impact investing strategies. Liverpool Partners' private equity strategy is industry agnostic, with a primary focus on high growth and sustainable businesses and partnering with founders and management teams to accelerate sustainable growth and create lasting shareholder value. Liverpool Partners has deep expertise in investing across the full spectrum of alternative asset classes, including private equity, real assets, and impact investing. Liverpool Partners predominantly invests on behalf of large institutional investors in Australia, providing WAM Alternative Assets shareholders with access to co-investment opportunities which are otherwise not available to wholesale and retail investors.

WAM Alternative Assets' investment in The Energy Network (TEN), a private equity growth co-investment, provides the investment portfolio with exposure to a highly cash generative business and income yield. We expect TEN to pay regular distributions, which is unique in private equity where the key driver for the performance is usually capital growth instead of yield. TEN supplies specialised tooling, equipment and line materials specifically designed for the electrical networks in Australia and New Zealand. This co-investment was made alongside our investment partner, Fortitude Investment Partners, and aligns with one of our long-term themes, climate change. TEN has been performing strongly, benefitting from increasing investment into transmission grids and distribution networks as Australia transitions to renewable energy as part of various international commitments.

W | A | M Research

The WAM Research (ASX: WAX) investment portfolio increased during the month, outperforming the S&P/ASX All Ordinaries Accumulation Index.

Australian lotteries retailer Jumbo Interactive (ASX: JIN) and global engineering company Austin Engineering (ASX: ANG) were contributors to the investment portfolio outperformance.

Jumbo Interactive is an Australian lotteries retailer and provider of a Software as a Service (SaaS) platform for government and charity lottery operators. The recent share price increase was primarily driven by a surge in lottery ticket sales for Powerball jackpots during the month. We believe the new players acquired by Jumbo Interactive through this jackpot period can be converted into regular players, boosting customer numbers and therefore revenues as a result. We believe that Jumbo Interactive is currently undervalued by the market with a net cash balance sheet providing plenty of scope for earnings accretive acquisitions or capital management.

Austin Engineering manufactures and supplies specialised mining products such as buckets and truck trays that improve efficiency for large mining clients globally. The company increased profit guidance to between $12 million to $14 million for the first half of FY2024, doubling from the prior period, with revenue guidance also uplifted to between $138 million and $144 million. The improved outlook is credited to growing revenue and ongoing operational improvements under the Austin 2.0 strategy initiated in 2021, which focuses on boosting average operating margins. We remain optimistic about Austin Engineering's outlook for revenue and earnings growth and with the balance sheet moving into a net cash position later in the year, we see the ability for the company to make earnings accretive acquisitions.

Dividends since inception

The Company's ability to continue paying franked dividends in FY2024 is dependent on the future franked dividends received from investee companies held within the WAM Research investment portfolio, and future tax paid on realised profits generated by the investment portfolio. In FY2024, it is anticipated that the franked dividends received from investee companies in the investment portfolio will generate franking to fully frank approximately 15 cents per share in a dividend for shareholders and any additional franking would need to be generated through the payment of tax on profits.

The WAM Active investment portfolio increased during the month. Contributors to the investment portfolio performance included connectivity services provider Megaport (ASX: MP1) and wealth platform provider HUB24 (ASX: HUB).

Megaport is an enterprise software and services organisation that enables data connection between companies and data centres. In January, Megaport's share price increased off the back of a positive quarterly earnings update which surpassed market expectations. The company also announced the addition of a large US-based healthcare customer, worth $4.2 million over the next three years, representing the company's largest deal to date. Megaport is a beneficiary of an increase in data connectivity and artificial intelligence and we believe the Company is well positioned to continue taking advantage of the demand for its services over the next few years.

HUB24 offers data and technology solutions to the financial advisory sector through cloud-based wealth accounting services. The investment platform provider recently reported strong quarterly performance, achieving record platform net inflows of $4.5 billion, a 60.4% increase compared to the prior corresponding period. According to the latest data from researcher Plan for Life, HUB24 secured the top position for both quarterly and annual net inflows and has been acknowledged in the industry with multiple SMSF Adviser awards. The company maintains a robust opportunity pipeline across all customer segments, reinforcing our confidence in its continued success and ability to keep beating market expectations.
